CEO'S REPORT

LEAH KOSOKOWSKY

What's New

2nd ANNUAL
SANKOFA LECTURE
Black History Month

CAN YOU TAKE A FILE OUTSIDE OF MANITOBA?
Mobility in 2025

PRACTICE MANAGEMENT
QUICK TIPS

As this is the first issue of the Communiqué in 2025, I would like to wish all of you a very happy new year. I hope that you were able to take a break to celebrate the festive season.

On December 12, 2024, the benchers met for the final meeting of 2024. With the appointment of Kelli Potter to the Court of King's Bench, the benchers directed the Nominating Committee to begin the work of identifying and recommending the appointment of a practising lawyer to fill the vacancy in the seat of appointed bencher with an office outside of the City of Winnipeg.

The benchers also directed the Law Society to establish a program to support practitioners who open a small or solo practice. While we are in the planning stage, lawyers who indicate an intention to open such a practice, will receive a package of resources along with an invitation to meet with a practice advisor to review their practice setup. You can expect further communications as the program develops.

The benchers were advised that the anticipated national examination of the good character requirement for admission will not be moving forward. Accordingly, they have directed Law Society staff to review and analyze the current good character requirements in Manitoba and return to the benchers with recommended modifications.

An update on the electronic banking initiative was shared with the benchers. The pilot project is moving forward, with fewer than anticipated participants. Nevertheless, those firms who are participating in the project represent a broad cross-section of firms.

Ongoing feedback received from participants is being used to draft Law Society rules and guidelines for a full rollout of the program, which will permit firms to move monies out of trust electronically. Over the next several months, you can also expect to receive education materials to support your understanding of the rules and controls that are required to move the funds safely and effectively.

Finally, the benchers endorsed an access to justice initiative which will entail, in Phase I, a contractor hired by the Law Society to conduct specific, intensive and extensive information gathering over an approximate 12-week period with organizations who are working to advance access to justice. The results of the review will determine the direction taken in Phase II of the project.

LAW IS A HIGH STRESS PROFESSION

The Mindful Business Charter Can Help

SHARON KRAVETSKY, K.C., Practice Resource Coordinator

The practice of law is inherently stressful. Heavy workloads, relentless client demands and billable hour targets can take a toll. Helping clients can be emotionally draining and overtake our lives. Work/life balance can be elusive.

How does this relate to the MINDFUL BUSINESS CHARTER? Chronic stress impacts mental clarity and can lead to physical illness, mental health challenges, and burnout. How we interact with our team, our clients and our staff can make a big difference. It is more effective and easier to try to reduce unnecessary stress, than to deal with its aftermath. Integrating mindfulness in the way we practice law can lead to improved wellness, resiliency and productivity.

For sustainable success, well-being needs to be at the heart of business strategy because in order to perform well, you have to be well.

The Mindful Business Charter was developed in the UK by leading law firms together with their major corporate clients. Encompassing four guiding pillars, its aim is to reduce avoidable stress and promote a healthy, supportive and productive workplace.

The first and most important pillar is Openness and Respect. This builds trust and effective communication between colleagues and with clients. We can help protect everyone's well-being by respecting each other's lives and responsibilities, including times away from work. Regular check ins and feedback are part of ensuring that well-being remains key.

Smart Meetings and Communications. Meetings should be purposeful, and be attended only by those who need to be there. Methods of internal communications should be streamlined. Unnecessary communications and after-hours messages should be avoided.

Respect for Rest Periods. Recognize that work days end and respect time off. Clear boundaries around availability enhance the ability to rest and recharge and support work/life balance. No one can be on call 24/7, 365 days a year!

Mindful Delegation. Delegation should empower, not overwhelm. Instructions and expectations should be clear. Realistic deadlines should be discussed, rather than imposed. Thoughtful delegation both supports the recipient and leads to a better work product.

The well-being of lawyers and staff must be central to the workplace culture. Adopting these four guiding pillars can create a safe space for recognizing and discussing what may be causing stress, and will be the first steps in reducing it. A workplace that cares for the well-being of its members will boost morale and create a happier, healthier and more productive team.

We have more information on how to support the well-being of your colleagues and staff, and how to reduce the stress inherent in the practice of law. Watch An Introduction to the Mindful Business Charter on demand on the Law Society's Education Centre. Promoting healthier workplaces is not only good for each of us, but it is good for business!

Advancing Toward a More Inclusive and Equitable Legal Community

The recent Manitoba Articling Student Survey report shines light on areas for growth, for change, and the importance of education around equity in the legal profession. In short, we have not achieved equity across the profession, and we need to increase our awareness about the barriers faced by non-white lawyers from abroad, which make finding an article, finding mentorship during and after articling, and obtaining positions after articling is completed more challenging.

Most startling is the finding that: “Half of respondents educated abroad received no compensation or job offers. Compared to their peers educated in Canada, they (lawyers educated abroad) were more likely to article with Sole Practitioners and small firms. Among equity-deserving groups, a higher proportion were unpaid and not offered a job, despite working longer hours than those not identifying with equity-deserving groups.” Manitoba is not alone in this, as other provinces’ surveys showed similar results.

There is a direct correlation between mental health and experiencing racism and discrimination. The National Report on wellness in the legal profession noted a significant difference between non-white and white legal professionals in the areas of burnout, psychological distress, and depression, with a tendency to more severe levels of psychological distress, if you are Black, Indigenous or a person of colour.

Support, Cooperation and Encouragement

WOFORO DUA PA A
"when you climb a good tree"

Progress: Manitoba's legal profession is responding. In September 2024, the Law School launched the Internationally Trained Lawyer Program. In 2023, the MBA initiated the Internationally Trained Lawyers section. On February 3rd, the 2nd Annual Sankofa Lecture takes place at the Law Society. It's an opportunity to learn more about Black history and to go forward with greater equity and understanding. The Path, a mandatory online course for all lawyers, is another step towards removing barriers and reducing prejudice. We continue to learn about the way our beliefs have been shaped and evolved from the historical hierarchies which the colonial system created, because the effects linger.

In January, Law(yer) Strong staff and board participated in a Diversity, Equity, Inclusion and Belonging workshop, with Ultimate Potentials, to develop policies which embody DEIB principles. Law(yer) Strong has lawyer volunteers from diverse cultures and experience and is a program in which ALL members of the legal profession in Manitoba feel they belong and are supported.

CAN YOU TAKE A FILE OUTSIDE OF MANITOBA?

Mobility in 2025

TANA CHRISTIANSON, Director - Insurance

Once upon a time, before the first of the National Mobility Agreements was negotiated in 2002, if you wanted to take on a file related to another province or territory, you had to obtain a temporary Call to the bar in that province before you could do any work in Court or on a transaction. Ask a senior lawyer to reminisce about how difficult it was for them to file a Statement of Claim in Kenora or how they had to hire an agent in Regina to act on a transaction. You might hear some good stories.

Now, the National Mobility Agreement says you can do legal work outside of your home province of Manitoba, or take a file governed by the law of another Canadian province, or appear in a court or boardroom somewhere else in Canada (with exceptions for Quebec and the territories). But if you want to be insured for this work and not get in trouble with other Canadian law societies, there are some things you should know before you take that file.

Temporary mobility under the National Mobility Agreement is not unlimited. In order to be temporarily “mobile” in another province, you have to meet certain criteria (See Law Society rule 3 -63(3)):

1. You must be a practising lawyer in your home province (Manitoba).
2. You have to be insured in your home province (with some exceptions for government employees).
3. You can't have a discipline record (in your home province or anywhere else). If you do, you have to apply for a special mobility permit from the province you are visiting.
4. You cannot be subject to conditions of or restrictions on your practice. If you do, a permit will be required.
5. You can't have an economic nexus with the jurisdiction you are visiting (that is, you can't live there or have an office there).

If you meet the mobility criteria, you can practice for up to 100 days in the other jurisdiction. But take note, day means any calendar day or part of a calendar day in which the lawyer provides legal services, so even five minutes spent on that out-of-province file on one day counts as a day. If you think you are going to run over your 100 day limit in a particular province, you should apply for an extension from that province's law society or consider whether you should get your call in that jurisdiction as well.

Always remember, differences exist in the legislation, procedures and practice in each province. When you take a file out of your home province, you will have to do extra work to acquaint yourself with the law and the local practice in the jurisdiction you are visiting. There may be unique, obscure and unexpected twists. Think about engaging a local agent to advise you even if you intend to maintain primary conduct of the file yourself. Unfortunately, professional liability claims arising out of interjurisdictional work are not uncommon. So, take extra care on those out of province files.

No communication regarding interviews may be made prior to the Interview Call Day. Students must respond to an offer of an interview within this same time frame.

Recruitment Suspension Period

Between 4:00 p.m. on Friday, May 23, 2025 and 8:00 a.m. on Monday, June 2, 2025, neither students nor employers should be involved in any recruitment activity, including but not limited to participating in open houses, firm tours, or similar activities directed at encouraging employment, conducting of interviews, and discussing offers of employment.

Communications and interactions between employers and students related to a summer job placement, and not concerning an articling placement, are not prohibited in this context.

Interview Period

8:00 a.m., Monday, June 2, 2025, to 5:00 p.m., Tuesday, June 10, 2025. Interviews shall not be conducted prior to 8:00 a.m. on Monday, June 2, 2025. Please contact lehnes@lawsociety.mb.ca or lisa.griffin@umanitoba.ca if you require a space to conduct your interviews.

No Contact Period

There is to be no contact between students and employers between the end of the interview period and the earliest offer date.

Eligible Students

Approved principals or their delegates may make an offer of an articling position only to students who have, at a minimum, completed their second year of law studies. Only students who have, or will have obtained an LL.B., J.D. or CQ from the National Committee of Accreditation on or prior to June 30, 2025 will be eligible to apply for 2026-2027 articling positions

Earliest Offer Date

Approved principals or their delegates may not make an offer of an articling position in Winnipeg for the 2026-2027 articling term before 2:00 p.m. on Wednesday, June 11, 2025. Offers made on June 11, 2025 must remain open until 10:00 a.m. of the following morning. Offers made on June 11, 2025 can be accepted or rejected by students anytime before 10:00 a.m. on June 12th, but must be responded to by that time. Offers made after June 12, 2025 must be responded to no later than 10:00 a.m. the following morning.

Content of Offers

At the time the offer is made, employers must provide students with the name and contact information of the person to whom the student should communicate acceptance or rejection of the offer. Employers are also encouraged to include pertinent information with the offer, such as the proposed start date, salary and benefits.

Communication of Acceptance/Rejection

As a courtesy to employers and fellow students, students shall deal with offers received as soon as reasonably possible. Once a student has accepted an offer from one employer, the student must promptly communicate his/her rejection to any other employer that has extended an offer to the student. Failure to promptly communicate rejection of an offer prejudices the offering employer, as well as fellow students to whom subsequent offers may be made.

Accepted Offers

Once an offer has been accepted, neither the employer nor the student may withdraw from the agreement without the permission of the Chief Executive Officer of the Law Society of Manitoba.

Offer of Articling Positions after June 12, 2025

Employers may contact students directly to fill any unfilled articling positions. Offers made after June 12, 2025 must remain open until 10:00 a.m. the following day, unless accepted or rejected by the student.

Communication of Results

RBC CONVENTION CENTRE

The 2025 Mass Call to the Bar Ceremony is scheduled to take place at the RBC Convention Centre on Friday, June 20, 2025 at 9:00 am. Please note that the Call this year will be on a Friday morning. In the past, the ceremony has usually taken place on a Thursday morning.

If you are a candidate for Call and you plan to purchase your own set of Court robes, you should place your order in the next few weeks to ensure delivery of your robes in time for the ceremony. Locally, Hanford Drewitt can be consulted. Measurements will need to be done by mid-February with orders finalized by March 22nd so that items arrive in time.

If you have a Call candidate in your office and have a set of robes you are willing to lend them for the Call, please check to see if they will take you up on your offer. Often candidates are too shy to ask but are most appreciative of the offer!

Information about the limited number of used robes the Law Society has available for students to rent for their Call has been shared with the candidates via email. If you require another copy of the email, please contact lehnes@lawsociety.mb.ca.
